Whereas, the cooperation of citizens is key to solving crimes; and,

Whereas, the use of smartphones and smartphone technology has revolutionized the way we live; and,

Whereas, Optivon, Incorporated has created a smartphone application, named BASTAYAPR!, which means “Enough Is Enough!”, which allows the public to instantly and anonymously relay tips about suspected criminal activity to local police; and,

Whereas, Luis Romero, owner of Optivon, Inc., created this smartphone application after his 20 year-old son, Julian, was murdered in San Juan, Puerto Rico; and,

Whereas, this application allows the public to easily alert police to suspected crimes such as assault, robbery, domestic violence and child abuse; and,

Whereas, Puerto Rican authorities credit the use of this smartphone application with much- increased levels of public cooperation in solving crimes; and,
